

2012 EDC MFP fair booth

IT'S EL DORADO COUNTY FAIR TIME!

By Monique Wilber
UCCE El Dorado County Master Food Preserver

The El Dorado County Fair begins June 13 and continues through the June 17. The Master Food Preservers (MFP) of El Dorado County will be busy before the fair receiving home preservation entries, classifying the entries, organizing and running entries to the judges, and staffing the MFP booth during the fair.

At the fair, visitors can look at the many items entered in the various home food preservation categories. Be sure to stop at the MFP booth in the Marshall Building and get a free taste of sample food made from a safe and recommended home food preservation recipe. The samples offer a glimpse of the many ways food can be preserved at home. The MFP volunteers in the booth will have recipes for the samples and for many other home preservation projects for sale, at a nominal cost.

The volunteers enjoy talking about food preservation and about the many ways the MFP program helps people learn about safe home food preservation. Be sure to find out about upcoming public education classes being offered this summer and fall. These classes remain free to the public, and begin the first week in July. Each week a different aspect of safe home food preservation will be presented and demonstrated by a team of MFP volunteers. Check out the MFP website for specific dates and times. The MFP volunteers are excited to collaborate with the El Dorado County Fair as their new location for their public classes this year on Tuesdays and Saturdays.

After the closing day of the fair, the MFP volunteers remain to take down displays and return sample products to the competitors. The volunteers also record the winning entrants and help distribute prizes. The MFP volunteers work long, hard hours to present their home-based craft to the crowds at the fair.

MFP volunteers reached out to El Dorado County youth to mentor kids in safe home food preservation. Twenty-five youth attended the March “Jr’s Jams & Jellies” event to make jam or jelly entries for the fair. Ninety-three jars of preserves were made, with 25 fair entrees submitted in the youth division. The MFPs coordinated with the El Dorado County Fair for this event. The MFPs thank El Dorado County Fair, El Dorado Disposal, Strauss Wholesale food service, and Placerville Hardware for donations of the site, jars, pectin, sugar, and entry fees. A thank you to the MFPs for their one-on-one mentoring: Tracy Wickstrom, Cheryl Knapp, Claudia Littlejohn, Gene Kendall, Nancy Noble, Donna Lockwood, Eric Wickstrom, and Christi Brower. A special thanks to Master Gardeners Gary Littlejohn and Gerry Knapp who set up a table and showed the kids blossoms of the type of fruit they were using.
